

CZAR

Will Fight It Out to a Finish

MEDIATION IMPOSSIBLE IN EASTERN WAR

This Statement is Made by Russian Ambassador.

NATION'S PRESTIGE IS AT STAKE

And Financial Considerations Will be Brushed Aside—Czar's Resources.

Japanese Loans.

Washington, Nov. 15.—At the Russian embassy, Ambassador Cassini gave out the following statement: "Russia will pursue the war in the far east to the bitter end; that is, until the Russians have conquered. I deem it only my duty to reiterate what I have so often said, that Russia will not suspend in any case her military operations in the far east. All rumors and reports regarding the possible success of the direct overtures for peace which Japan is said to have made to Russia, and regarding the mediation of the powers, in my opinion, are started for the purpose of convincing the public that the end of the war is close at hand. In this way it is hoped that the public may be led to believe that Japanese loans offer attractive investments. "Russia can no more admit of interference than Great Britain could

COUNT CASSINI

In the Transvaal, or than could the United States in her war with Spain. Where the prestige of a country is at stake, all other considerations are and must be put aside. Some people may think that financial difficulties will influence Russia to end hostilities. Such an opinion is based upon the false assumption of Russia's financial resources. There is no doubt whatever that Russia, whose annual income exceeds $1,000,000,000, cannot be influenced in her attitude toward the outcome of the war by the amount of war expenditures. Is it not altogether out of the question that Russia, who did not expect war, should in the moment when she has mobilized her army and is sending corps after corps in fighting readiness to the far east, suddenly call a halt on hostilities, particularly after she has nearly a year without any difficulty or recourse to extraordinary measures been able to carry all the extra expenses? "It is not within my scope to comment upon the new Japanese loan. That is an affair for the bankers and for the public who are able to decide what advantages or disadvantages the investment offers. But there can be no necessity for commenting upon Russia's credit. Any one acquainted with the Paris exchange is able to convince himself of the solidity of Russia's finances."

FAMILIES

Driven From Their Homes in Chicago Today by a Fire—Several Narrow Escapes.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—More than a score of families were today driven from their homes by a fire in South Chicago by fire. The victims are steel workers. Several had narrow escapes.

HERRICK AND COX

CONFERENCE TONIGHT

Columbus, O., Nov. 15.—Governor Herrick and George B. Cox will hold a conference in Cincinnati tonight on the political situation in Ohio and put finishing touches on understanding between them.

MILLIONAIRE

SAYS HE AND MISS NESBITT ARE DEAR FRIENDS.

But Young Thaw Emphatically Denies That He and the Woman are Married.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—"I am not married to Miss Nesbitt. Evelyn and I are dear friends." In these words the young Pittsburgh millionaire, Harry Thaw, explained, or mystified, his relationship to the beautiful artist's model, whom the report said he married some months ago in Paris on a certain "wild night."

Mr. Thaw attempted to slip through Chicago unawares. He did not register at the Auditorium Annex, where he spent the time from his arrival in the morning from St. Louis, where he has been seeing the fair, until his departure in the afternoon for New York.

"In the phrase of President Roosevelt," said Thaw, "the story that I was thrown out of a New York hotel was a falsehood, again a falsehood, and a wicked falsehood. Miss Nesbitt did not like the hotel, and she left abruptly on that account."

Mr. Thaw denied emphatically that Miss Nesbitt accompanied him to St. Louis, and said that he was unaware of her present whereabouts, but he did not deny that he might see her on his arrival in New York. He denied that there had been any conference of the Thaw family to consider measures for his punishment, and asserted that reports of his yearly income of $77,000 being cut down were all bosh.

"My family," he said, "is not half so much concerned as the newspapers, and I am sure have no notion of disciplining me. No, I know nothing of Miss Nesbitt's demanding $250,000 in settlement. There is nothing to settle for. She and I are the dearest of friends, and she is not all the type of mercenary woman, even if she had grounds to found a claim on."

Mr. Thaw confessed he had not been in Pittsburgh, and was emphatic that the fair model was not with him or near him or in the West anywhere. Of his mother's displeasure or that of the family he refused point blank to speak. He left for New York over the Lake Shore road.

TESTIMONY

Given by Wagoner Himself Was the Basis of His Indictment He Declares.

Akron, O., Nov. 15.—Pleas in abatement of the four indictments against Captain Aaron Wagoner, president of the Board of Managers of the Ohio penitentiary and late cashier of the Akron Savings bank, have been filed in the Common Pleas Court. The pleas ask the court to dismiss the indictments for the reason that Wagoner was called to testify before the grand jury on matters which tended to incriminate him, and that largely upon the evidence he gave the indictments were found, but Mr. Wagoner's physical condition was such that he could not be consulted by his attorney. Wagoner has not yet been arraigned, but is under the same bond that was taken on the day the four indictments were returned.

GOMPERS

Reviews Industrial Situation With Satisfaction at the Labor Convention.

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—In his annual report to the American Federation of Labor, now in session here, President Gompers said: "We can view the result of our last year's declaration of policy of resistance to wage reductions with satisfaction and pride. We can challenge our critics and opponents to compare the past year, when we were confronted with an industrial reaction, with a year of a similar industrial situation, and it will demonstrate beyond cavil of doubt that wage reductions have been checked; the industrial situation has not become acute, as was the uniform course formerly; much idleness, poverty, suffering, and misery have been prevented; the area of industrial stagnation, as compared with former like conditions, has been shortened; the prospect for a revival in industry and commerce in the future is brighter, as compared with any similar previous period; there are more workmen and employers in agreement and understanding."

Call for Statement.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The Comptroller of currency today issued a call for a statement of the condition of National banks at the close of business November 10.

Contractor T. J. Mahr of Toledo was killed by a block of wood blown off the top of the 10-story Spitzer building.

MYSTERIOUS

AND BEAUTIFUL WOMAN KILLS HERSELF AT CLEVELAND.

She Shuffled Off the Mortal Coil by Drinking a Mixture of Two Poisons.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 15.—Unidentified in the morgue of the Lakeside Hospital lies the body of a woman—a suicide. This woman rented a room at a lodging house belonging to Mrs. Black last Thursday. Yesterday Mrs. Black heard groans in the room, and upon forcing an entrance found the woman dying. She died shortly after reaching the hospital.

"The only name I knew her by was Henderson, or Ferguson," said Mrs. Black. "I am not sure which it was. She was a mystery to me, though I guessed she had trouble with her husband. Friday she asked me if I believed in men, and I told her I did not know what she meant."

"Are there any good men in the world or are they all bad?" she said. "Men are all right, dear," I said, half in fun, "only don't trust them too far."

"She impressed everybody in the house as being a woman of more than usual refinement and breeding. On a chair beside the dying woman was found a glass half full of yellow, odorless liquid and two pieces of chemical, one white, resembling potassium cyanide, and the other brown. There were the marks of teeth on the white piece. Nine-tenths of a grain of potassium cyanide will cause death in five minutes."

"The woman was beautifully formed. Her hands were white, slim and long, with tapering fingers and polished nails—hands that had never known labor. Her hair was blonde. She had no clothes besides these she wore, and no baggage. A pocketbook found on the dresser contained 25 cents. Her clothing was expensive, and her black lace hat bears the mark of a Parisian milliner. The woman was apparently 30 years old."

NAN PATTERSON

Trial for Murder of Caesar Young is Postponed Today Until Tomorrow Morning.

New York, Nov. 15.—The opening of the trial of Nan Patterson, the actress charged with the murder of "Caesar" Young, the bookmaker, in a cab last June, was postponed this morning until tomorrow because of an unfinished manslaughter case now before Justice Vernon M. Davis. Miss Patterson appeared in court gowned completely in black.

FIFTH TRIAL

Of Dr. A. A. Ames Will Begin at Minneapolis on the 28th Day of November.

Minneapolis, Nov. 15.—The fifth trial of Dr. A. A. Ames will begin Nov. 28. The case was set on motion of Assistant County Attorney C. S. Jelley and the work of preparing a special venire of 100 men began at once. The trial will probably be on the indictment charging that Dr. Ames accepted a bribe of $20 from Bessie Lee.

They Are Mental Wrecks.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 15.—The famous nihilists, Aschenbrenner, Ivanoff, and Figner have been released after serving 20 years of solitary confinement. They were leaders in the terrorist movement in the early eighties. The men emerged physically and mentally wrecked. They have been sentenced for life at Pustosersk, within the arctic circle.

Burned to Death.

New York, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Catharine Hunt, aged 40, was burned to death and Thomas and John Goff were severely burned in a fire in Brooklyn this morning. The fire was caused by the upsetting of an oil lamp, which then exploded in the room of Mrs. Hunt. The Goffs ran to her assistance.

Sent by the Mikado.

Paris, Nov. 15.—Prince Yamatake, the Japanese cousin of the Mikado, arrived at Marseilles today. It is said he has been officially sent to France and England and will go later to the United States.

Relief Association Quits.

Youngstown, O., Nov. 15.—The Carnegie relief association is winding up its business because of the strike. The steel worker get an 85 per cent dividend.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 15.—The storm washed away the houses of several fishermen at Jinna Keet, N. C. Two men were drowned.

GENERAL ANDRE

HAS RESIGNED

No Reason for the Act is Given.

But It is Obvious That Scene Last Week in Which Andre's Face was Slapped was the Cause.

Paris, Nov. 15.—General Andre, war minister, handed his resignation to President Loubet today. No reason for the act is given, but it is obvious that the scene in the chamber last week when Andre's face was slapped by Deputy Syveton, during an exciting debate over the war department and the Dreyfus scandal was the cause. The resignation was accepted and M. Bertheaux chairman of the war budget committee of the chamber was offered the portfolio. Andre has not been in good health lately. Reports have it that the injuries in the assault were serious, and that they caused mental derangement.

It is now officially announced Bertheaux will accept.

WARE

Pension Commissioner Resigns to Resume His Law Practice.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Commissioner of Pensions Ware tendered his resignation to the president and it was accepted to take effect New Year's day. The commissioner refused to discuss his action in any way except to state that the newspapers of the country had been "resigning" him for the past two years. For at least one year, however, it has been definitely known that Mr. Ware would retire from his office soon after the fall election, and return to his home in Kansas to resume his law practice. It is believed here that Commissioner Ware's action was not due to any suggestion that the severance of his relations with the pension office would be agreeable to the president. On the contrary, it has been no secret that Commissioner Ware, soon after assuming his duties, found the duties of his office distasteful to him, and that this distaste steadily increased. There is no intimation as to who his successor will be.

WIRES DOWN

Wet Snow Broke Every Wire in Albany and Vicinity—Storm's Effect in New York.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Wet snow broke down every telephone and telegraph wire in this city and vicinity. More than half the city was in darkness from interrupted light circuits. The fire alarm service was so crippled that special precautions were taken by the police to give warning in case of fire. The snow was not over four inches deep, but so heavy that trolley traffic was greatly hampered and trains entering the city averaged an hour late. It is the worst wire blockade the city has experienced since the storm of 1888.

Storm's Effect in New York.

New York, Nov. 15.—That the effects of the southern storm were more far reaching than in any similar disturbance since the great blizzard of 1888 became evident when the disarrangement of wire communication continued almost as complete as at any time during the height of the storm. Many points were completely isolated, while whole sections were reached only by most circuitous routes. To the west, the only points having direct communication with New York, were Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Damage at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—The southern storm seriously interfered with telegraph and telephone communication in this vicinity. The telegraph companies report that wires are down in nearly all directions excepting in New York and Baltimore. Communication with the interior of the state is entirely cut off. Beyond the interruption of telegraph and telephone service the storm did little damage here. Rain, sleet and snow fell with a maximum wind velocity of 41 miles.

HOGS ROASTED

And Thousands of Cattle Stampeded by Big Blaze in the Stock Yard Today.

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 15.—Fire in the union stock yard this morning burned 2,500 hogs, roasted 3,200 calves, and stampeded and killed 5,000 head of cattle, sheep and swine. The animals broke through the wire enclosures and destroyed considerable valuable property until 500 were clubbed then back. The fire caused an ammonia tank to explode. The loss is $150,000.

WILL VISIT SCENES OF HIS BOYHOOD DAYS.

His First Vacation in Three Years—He Receives 6000 Letters of Congratulation.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 15.—After answering 6,000 odd letters of congratulation, Governor-elect Joseph W. Folk with Mrs. Folk, departed yesterday afternoon for his first vacation in three years. His departure was delayed several days by matters requiring attention, and his "time off" was accordingly reduced that much. He now expects to be away, not more than five or six days.

Among the places he will visit will be his old home at Brownsville, Tenn. This also was the former home of Mrs. Folk, upon whom will soon devolve the duties of mistress of the governor's mansion.

The last chapter in the fight for his election is about closed. The letters of congratulation, immediate sequel to his success, poured in by hundreds, and they came from many sources, high and low, in the United States and abroad.

Editors of publications, both of this country and of Europe, well known politicians and publicists, business and scientific men, were the contributors of them.

From those of Judge Parker and William J. Bryan to the others from minor personages their tenor was the same.

"I congratulate you, the State of Missouri and the American nation upon your election," said Mr. Bryan. "The one conviction of the various writers seemed to be that the result in Missouri on Governor, under the existing circumstances, was deeply significant and full of meaning for the nation at large."

TREATY

With Austria is Sought—Bellamy Storer Visits the Foreign Office at Venice.

Vienna, Nov. 15.—Bellamy Storer, the American ambassador, visited the foreign office here and approached Count Goluchowski on the subject of an arbitration treaty between Austria and the United States. Count Goluchowski replied that his government would gladly discuss a proposition of that nature and said that Austria-Hungary was now negotiating similar treaties with other powers.

FOUND DEAD

Under Window at Her Home Was Mrs. Bauer, Wife of Cincinnati Banker.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 15.—Mrs. Theodore Bauer, 70, wife of Theodore Bauer, who is connected with the First National bank, was found dead beneath a window in the rear of her home, at 2300 Milton street this morning. Her skull was fractured and her neck broken. Mrs. Bauer had been ill and had been despondent for some time.

Fairbanks at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 15.—Unaccompanied, save for several secret service men, Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, vice-president-elect, arrived at Union Station at 8 10 o'clock this morning. He was met by President Francis. Col. J. G. Butler, and Francis D. Hirschberg of the exposition. The party was whisked away in an automobile to the St. Louis club where they breakfasted. Later they went to the fair grounds.

Pope Fully Recovered.

Rome, Nov. 15.—Dr. Lapponi, the pope's physician, today found his holiness fully recovered from yesterday's attack of heart weakness which followed the announcement of Cardinal Maccenni's death.

Irrigation Congress.

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 15.—The twelfth national irrigation congress opened this morning. Senator Clark of Montana, president, and other speakers in a plenary session of the body to work in west.

Paid in Full.

St. Louis, Nov. 15.—The World's Fair officials have paid the last installment of the federal loan of $1,500,000.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Albert B. Relyea, aged 45, chief of the redemption division of the treasury, shot himself in the head this afternoon at his desk in the treasury department. He was taken to a hospital in a dying condition. No reason is assigned for the act.

TOTAL VOTE

IN OHIO IS HOVERING AROUND MILLION MARK

According to Estimate Made at Columbus—Here Are the Latest Figures.

Columbus, O., Nov. 15.—With the official returns of two counties lacking the tabulation at Republican state headquarters show that the majority for Roosevelt in Ohio will be 255,217. Semi-official figures from the counties not included indicate that there will be but little change from this result.

The total vote in the counties tabulated shows that the Republicans cast 591,377 and the Democrats 338,289. In 1900 the two counties missing cast 15,614 votes, the Republicans getting 6,613 and the Democrats 8,491. The per centage of gains and losses, according to calculations made upon the returns of the 81 counties tabulated, shows a Republican increase of 19 per cent, and a Democratic decrease of 27 per cent.

In round numbers this would add 7,274 to the Republicans and 7,133 to the Democrats or 14,407 in all. Added to the existing total vote of the 81 counties on the table, 321,666, this would make a grand total for the two leading parties of about 346,000. From this it is deduced that the total vote in the state will hover around the million mark.

The third party vote will reach a combined total of 50,000 at least. Returns from 37 counties shows a Prohibition vote of 10,227, more than the total of last year in the state. The Socialists in 45 counties show a total of 29,775. In 29 counties the Socialist-Labor ticket got 1,752 and the Populist only 431. The Prohibitionist ticket it is estimated will get 15,000 in the state and the Socialist about 32,000, a total of 47,000.

Adding 50,000 to the total of the two great parties would make the grand total of all the parties 996,000. To this must be added to reach the total number of ballots actually cast, the scattering and the so-called "miscellaneous" of the last named class there were, four years ago between 8,000 and 9,000. If that number is duplicated this year, and there are no reasons for believing otherwise, the million mark will be passed with some few thousand to spare.

MESSAGE

Circled the Globe to Tell Chicago Agent the Condition of the New York Market.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—From New York, by the way of London, Suva, Bombay, Hongkong, Yokohama, Honolulu and San Francisco, a message of two words was received in Chicago at noon relieving the suspense of hundreds of stock traders, who had spent the morning not knowing whether they were rich or ruined.

The message was from Charles C. Gates in New York to his Chicago manager and read: "Market higher."

The message was the first news of the condition of the New York stock market which reached Chicago. Cut off from communication with the East by the terrific storm which had swept away all telegraph wires, several of the large stock brokers' firms have sent men to New York by fast trains to place orders.

IN TRUNKS

Chinamen Were Shipped to South Bend Eluding the Pursuing Secret Service Detectives.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 15.—A chase for three smuggled Chinamen—Queng Lee, Jim Meng and Louis Kee—which began on the Canadian border and extended to San Francisco and then to South Bend, has ended in the capture and arrest of the Celestials. They were taken into custody by two United States Secret Service men, who attempted to get them out of the city without attracting attention.

At times the officers were hot on the trail of the suspects, but through a clever scheme of their brother countrymen the sleuths were thrown off the trail at Chicago three months ago, the Chinamen at that time disappearing as if by magic.

Last month a tip from a white employee of a local laundry resulted in the publication of the Celestials' escape. It transpired that the three smuggled men had been shipped out of Chicago in trunks, they being consigned to Louis Chung.

Hope Almost Abandoned.

Cincinnati, Nov. 15.—The police have almost given up the hope of finding the murderer of Miss Alma Steinhilber. Coroner Weaver today commenced his preliminary inquest.

H. J. Immenhart, coal and river man, killed himself at Cleveland.

A. J. Mead, 89, founder of Manhattan, Kansas, died in Yonkers, N. Y.

BIDS

For the Japanese Loan Closed at Noon

FIERCE RESISTANCE BY RUSSIANS AT PT. ARTHUR

Weather is Very Cold at the Seat of War.

A POWERFUL FORT IS GAINED

After a Desperate Engagement, but the Brown Men are Pushed Back.

War News.

London, Nov. 15.—(Bulletin)—The new Japanese loan bids closed at noon today. At that time the loan had been nine times over subscribed.

Very Cold at Seat of War.

Rome, Nov. 15.—The Mukden correspondent of the Italia Militaire today reports that the cold at the front is something terrible. This very fact, however adverse on its face, is acting as an aid to the Japanese in that it provides for them a ready means of advance. The Japanese mobilization, he says, continues.

After the Baltic Fleet.

London, Nov. 15.—The Renter Telegram company has a dispatch from Tokyo reporting that the Mikado yesterday presided at a conference of the military and naval staffs at which plans were considered for intercepting the Baltic fleet in the far eastern waters.

North Sea Inquiry.

Hull, Nov. 15.—The inquiry into the North Sea outrage opened here today.

Alexieff at St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 15.—The Czar this morning granted an audience to Viceroy Alexieff, who has just returned from the seat of war.

London, Nov. 15.—A dispatch from the headquarters of the Japanese army before Port Arthur, via Fusan, Nov. 14, states:

By an attack on the eastern ridge at Port Arthur on Oct. 30 the Japanese gained the moats of the principal forts assailed. These were wider, deeper and stronger than has been supposed and were defended by galleries running north of the Keekwan forts. The galleries were captured after desperate fighting underground. The Russians still hold parts of the moats, but the Japanese are engaged in sapping to dislodge them, after which the capture of the forts should be easy. The casualties on the Japanese side in this engagement were 1,000.

A later dispatch reads:

The casualties in the attack of the Japanese on the eastern fortified ridge on Oct. 30, were 1,500. It was an unsuccessful assault. The powerful East Keekwan fort was gained but the Russians were reinforced and drove the Japanese down to the foot of the hill. The Japanese are now sweeping toward the crest of the hill. The capture of this fort would give the Japanese the key to the eastern fortified range, as artillery mounted here would dominate the forts in front of the ridge and enable the Japanese to place infantry in a position to sweep the ridge.

Decisive Battle Improbable.

Berlin, Nov. 15.—Colonel Gaedke, the Tagelblatt's military correspondent in the far east, in a dispatch from Mukden, Nov. 14, says: "The situation is unchanged. A decisive battle is improbable before spring. The Japanese will not attack until several weeks after the fall of Port Arthur and the Russians are awaiting such an overwhelming superiority in numbers as to leave the question of victory beyond doubt. The Russians are constantly receiving reinforcements and the troops are in good spirits and excellent health. Even the outposts are well sheltered against the cold."

Official Reports.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 15.—General Sahharoff reports that the night passed quietly. General Linewitch has assumed command of the First Manchurian army. General Kuropatkin in a telegram to the minister of war, denies the Japanese charges to the effect that Russian troops disguised themselves in Chinese clothing, and makes counter charges against the Japanese of wearing Russian uniforms in the attack on Shakhe, Oct. 14, whereby they were enabled to approach close to the Russian batteries and capture several guns of the Thirty-seventh brigade.

The real boss of the campaign committee leaned across the table and wagged a heavy forefinger under Brackett's nose.

"I've enched the finest wire that was ever pulled, and when they were get done pullin' Bill Garrett's chances are dead and rained on or my name's not Jim Stinson. I've interviewed Miss Elizabeth Heath, and she's ours."

The emphatic finger stopped as Brackett sprang to his feet.

"You—you interviewed Miss Heath in my favor?"

"Yes. Why not? She's a power, she is, with them fellows' wives down in the Tenth ward, and she's a lady right, you bet."

Brackett dropped limply into the chair behind him, while Stinson poured out the history of his call upon Miss Heath, the president of the Hypatia, in a mixture of slang plentifully sprinkled with "sez I" and "sez she."

Stinson took much glory to himself that he should have thought of this clever stroke just at the critical point of the campaign. Miss Heath's influence in certain quarters was unbounded. Down in the Tenth ward, where the tall tenements gloom above the river, the little children of the poor watched for her coming, and the tired mothers told her all their trials and troubles, all their simple ambitions and little joys, finding a ready sympathy. Stinson had heard of Miss Heath through that channel, and it was to those poor, tired mothers that he looked for a controlling voice in the vote that would go up from the Tenth ward.

Stinson had also counted on the lever wielded by Miss Heath as president of the Hypatia, the woman's club that led not only in the city, but in the state federation. The federation's interests once aroused and its influence brought to bear would mean a powerful leavening at work for his man from one end of the state to the other. All this and more he poured into the unheeding ear of Brackett, whose mind was engrossed with the one thought, the intolerable shame that this man should have appealed to Elizabeth Heath in his name.

Beyond all considerations of the governor's office, of his political future, his mind reeled with the intensity of this one thought.

Stinson's last words as he stood in the doorway recalled him:

"I told her that you would call in a few days and discuss the matter further. She seemed right willing to take a hand after she had chewed the rag a bit, and I saw as how a call from you would sorter clinch it. Women folks has to be made up to. I reckon you know all about that? Well, so long, Mr. Governor," and Stinson was gone.

John Brackett turned off the light and sat still in the glow of the fire. The warm rays danced over his fast silencing head, bringing out the lines of the tired, old young face and accentuating in grotesque shadow the droop of his shoulders.

"Her name on the lips of this coarse man! Out of the silence of the years to hear it for the first time in this manner!" He had been away so long in the lower part of the state that he had quite lost sight of the changes that must have come to her as well as to himself. So she was a social leader now, a club woman. He remembered the pleasant family circle as he had known it and wondered if it yet remained unbroken. Out of the coils sprang the picture of the girl, Elizabeth Heath, as he had last seen her, that night when he had told her good-bye forever. He could almost hear himself speaking the slow, fateful, reluctant words, in which he had told her that the bond between them must be broken for reasons over which he had no control—a half confidence that, in the light of present knowledge, he knew to have been far more cruel, more cowardly, than a silence that would have left her the poor solace of believing him utterly unworthy.

He had scarcely thought of her when returning to the old town. He had made the move for political reasons, and one hotel is much like another to a man who had forgotten the meaning of home. Like one groping through the dark, picking up the tangled thread of a dropped web, John Brackett threaded back through the mazes of fifteen years—fifteen!

Brackett's tread grew less resolute, and his feet seemed to drag just a little as he turned into the well remembered square and saw the white columns of the Heath home among the trees. Old Peter opened the door. A little gray above the fringe of wool, a little more stooped, but the same old Peter, shuffling down the hall ahead of him.

The house was painfully familiar. There in the corner was the little settee among the palms where they had sat that rainy day. He remembered the shadows that shifted over the pale blue gown that she had worn and felt again the touch of the soft hand in his—the hands that were like no other hands in all the world.

Old Peter's shuffling steps had died away and the house was still. Then he heard her step upon the stair and down the hall, and Elizabeth stood before him, unchanged, except for the grayer lines about the firm, sweet mouth and a deeper light in the dark eyes. Brackett grasped her hand with an almost painful force.

"You have been quite a long while in claiming your old friends in Warren, Mr. Brackett."

It was a merely banal greeting, but the commonplace served to place Brackett on the right footing.

"Most certainly, and yet I feel that I should apologize for this intrusion, had I not come to make apology for a greater one that was made in my name."

"You allude to Mr. Stinson's call?" she laughed lightly. "Mr. Stinson does me the honor to consider me a force in the political situation. I assure you I appreciate the compliment, as the president of the Hypatia. But as Elizabeth Heath, I must beg to decline it."

Brackett made a slight movement toward her. "I beg you to consider the man and his total ignorance as to the enormity of what he was doing. It was a distinct shock to me to hear your name upon his lips, and—"

"I understand," she replied quickly. "Believe me, I did not connect you with it in the least. In fact, when he mentioned that you would call to discuss the matter I was very certain that you were entirely innocent of all knowledge of his errand here."

Brackett flushed darkly.

"I trust you will treat this incident as if it had never happened, and of course there need be no question of your support in a political sense."

Here they both laughed uneasily. "So much so," she responded, "that I will use every effort to further the cause of Governor Brackett."

Brackett sprang to his feet, his dark face aglow. "Elizabeth!"

Miss Heath held up a warning hand. "Mr. Brackett, fifteen years have come and gone since any man has held the right to call me by that name. We were speaking of politics."

Brackett submitted mutely as she led the talk around to other questions of the day lightly and easily, giving him time to find himself in the talk of old friends and places.

"And the general, how is he and your mother?"

She looked at him wonderingly. "Is it possible that with all of Mr. Stinson's information he did not tell you that I am living here alone with only Aunt Jane? Father and mother died within one month of each other ten years ago."

Brackett turned abruptly and walked to the window. He understood many things now, all the loneliness and the beautiful truth of this woman, who had lived her life so bravely. The sunlight in the square was blinding. Perhaps that was why his eyes were wet as he walked swiftly down the long room and drew her hands into his.

"Elizabeth, there was fate in Stinson's call, the fate that has watched us both through all these years. There were ghosts that knocked and waked my starved heart last night, ghosts that would not be silenced. I was a coward then, a coward not brave enough to humble my pride and tell you of the burden that lay between us, and when death removed that burden it was too late, I thought, but I am here now to plead my case afresh, here at your mercy. We are older now, and there is little youth left us, and for God's sake don't let pride stand between us and that little. Will the president of the Hypatia work for me as my promised wife? Will she, Elizabeth?"

Old Peter shuffled down the hall unnoticed and stood in the doorway a brief second, then he ambled away, mopping his eyes.

"I thought that was Massa John Brackett. It's certain now for suah!"

A MILD REBUKE.

Figaro tells a story of Eugene Spuller, who was minister of public instruction under the presidency of Casimir Perier, which brings out his kindness of heart. When the doorkeeper brought him his letters one morning Spuller said to him:

"Were you not supposed to be on duty at 11:30 last night?"

"Yes, sir."

"And you were not there?"

"That is correct," replied the doorkeeper, fairly trembling as he saw his dismissal at hand. "But I have a sick mother, your excellency. I wished to visit her."

"That is quite proper," rejoined M. Spuller, "and I hope that your mother will soon recover. But if she should continue to be ill, which heaven forbid, I would like to ask you one favor"—Here the doorkeeper stared with wide open mouth. "If you go to visit your mother once more," added the minister calmly and quietly, "please have the kindness not to lock me in my office again. I had to spend the night at this desk because I could not get out."

About Certain Words.

There is often a hint of something approaching to an ancient kind of slang in various dignified words in the English language. So respectable a term as "perspicuity," for instance, means that a thing can be "seen through" easily. The word "apocalypse" means "lifting off the cover," or, in other words, the revelation of whatever good or bad things may be concealed in a chest of secrets like Pandora's box possibly, or maybe only in the "lunch basket" of some old Greek workman.

"Impediment," coming from a Latin word meaning to catch or hold the feet, vividly expresses the nature of anything that entangles or hinders one in the performance of any action. Still, to speak of an impediment in one's speech is in a certain way to get one's foot in one's mouth.

"Conspiracy" comes from a Latin word meaning to breathe together. The picture it gives of a group of plotters with their heads thrust up in a compact bunch is vivid enough to render enjoyable the sarcasm of the old Roman who invented the term.—Chicago News.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

The average boy does not care who is elected so he can get in the parade and work his squawker and his lungs.

If a man just sets willingly about it he can find many things that drive him to drink.

If you want to tickle a man and make him feel that he is a silly dog, tell him that an old sweetheart of his inquired after him.

It adds much to the pleasures of a dinner if the fresh country butter has had a shave before it is placed on the table.

The person who is always giving good advice is kept too busy to take any of it himself.

If you happen to be out when the collector calls, it isn't necessary to call him up and apologize.

The homelier a girl is the more she requires beautiful clothes, and the prettier she is the more she desires beautiful clothes.

In Manchuria war appears to be living up to General Sherman's description with high water added.

When a man has tried for half an hour to call up some one on the telephone on important business he thinks if there is no future punishment there should be for the man who invented the busy signal.

It is much easier to predict weather than it is to have the weather live up to the predictions.

Busted.

The dollars from my jeans have fled, The gladness from my heart is gone, And everything looks pale and wan That erstwhile blossomed rosy red.

I search my pockets through and through— Tobacco, jack knife, two key rings, A corkscrew and some other things— But I can't find a single sou.

I take my sad plight much to heart, And, oh, for me there is no peace! From sorrow can I hope release? When I and my last dollar part?

Oh, woe is me, and me is woe! My landlord now informs that he, Though hating much to trouble me, Must see the color of my dough.

And so to chase his gloom away, Alas, to work I have to go And dub around till I can show A bunch of coin wherewith to pay.

The Popular One.

"He took a postgraduate course in the school of experience."

"Worked in a barber shop, did he?"

Almost a Hint.

"Yes," said the sweet young girl, "I flatter myself that I am something of a mind reader. Although I am not the seventh daughter of a seventh daughter, it comes natural for me to tell what a person is thinking by looking at him."

"Now, that is interesting," said young Mr. Latestayer, who was making a friendly call. "Suppose you prove it by telling me what I am thinking about."

"We must use tact in practicing these mystic arts," she replied, "and really I would hate to hurt your feelings."

"Oh, go ahead. I don't care who knows my thoughts."

"Well, if you insist," she said sweetly, "you are thinking that you really must take your hat and go home."

The young man laughed uproariously at the guess, but he did not linger around many hours longer.

Lower Still.

"How are you coming with your trust investment?"

"Not coming at all."

"I thought they let you in on the ground floor."

"They did, but they afterward dropped me into the basement."

Just Her Way.

When a fellow's spent his money, And he hasn't any more, Then this sign hangs out his honey, "Nothing doing," on the door.

Falling Off.

"I lost 5 cents in weight this morning."

"You mean five pounds."

"No. I dropped a nickel in the slot of a weighing machine that was not working."

Of Course a Mistake.

"They elected an honest alderman from the Stenth ward this spring."

"Strange what accidents will happen!"

Often Happens.

It really seems a pity That after many moons A youth so full of promise Should turn out full of prunes.

JAPANESE VEGETABLES.

Cultivation of Udo Will Be Undertaken on a Farm Near Seattle.

Two greenhouses are being erected by a Japanese company of Seattle, Wash., on the Crystal Springs farm, on Bainbridge island, for the cultivation of Japanese plants available in Seattle market for commercial uses or delicacies. The preparations for the experiments in the growth of Japanese products are being made under the direction of a member of a Japanese importing and exporting firm and under the guidance and assistance of the agricultural department of the United States government, says the Seattle Times.

The first experiment will be made with the cultivation of udo, a Japanese plant similar in some respects to celery and asparagus, though possessing a flavor different from either. It is used extensively in winter salads and is a delicious vegetable. Orders have been placed in Japan for two varieties of udo, and the agricultural department will supply other plants. Udo is being grown in California, and the government has experimented with the plant.

Steps will be taken to introduce sanchō, a spice somewhat similar to red pepper, though possessing different qualities. Wasabi, a Japanese product comparing more nearly to horseradish than anything else of American culture, will be introduced at the Bainbridge island farm.

Japanese water lilies will be grown as soon as steps can be taken to introduce them, and other flowers, including chrysanthemums, are to be introduced later. The growing of flowers peculiar to Japan is a branch of the industry that will follow if other experiments meet with success.

The Japanese firm expects to be able to cultivate bamboo on Bainbridge island. It is believed by agricultural department officials and members of the Japanese firm that the Washington climate will encourage the growth of bamboo. If bamboo can be raised on Bainbridge island successfully it will greatly encourage its use in light furniture and other uses to which it is put in Japan and other oriental countries. The growing of bamboo will not be attempted at once, however.

The property taken by the Japanese firm is held under lease. It includes 160 acres lying on the south side of Bainbridge island.

OLD MEN WHOOP IN SCHOOL.

They Give Chicago Pupils Samples of Indian Yells in Early Days.

Children attending the Jones school, Harrison street and Plymouth court, in Chicago, were recently treated to a realistic presentation of Indians on the warpath when Alexander Beaubien and Fernando Jones, who had been invited to give a lecture on Indian customs and manners, broke forth into a blood curdling medley of redskin yells and war whoops which made the girls turn pale and the boys shudder, says the Chicago Post.

Alexander Beaubien, the first white child born in Chicago, and his chum, Fernando Jones, preceded their bloodthirsty outburst by a programme of stories of the old days when Indians erected their wigwams around the walls of Fort Dearborn. Mr. Beaubien's story of how he killed an Indian brave who was seeking his scalp at the age of eleven proved particularly fascinating.

The Middle Aged and Employment.

It seems certain that the lamentable tendency to refuse employment to the middle aged increases both in America and England, says the London Spectator. The Carnegie Steel works have recently fixed thirty-five as the latest age of admission in some departments and forty in others, while in England the effect of the employers' liability act has been to produce a certain dread of employing middle aged men, who, from want of quickness, are more liable to accident. In Liverpool it was recently stated by the poor law authorities that large numbers of workmen now dye their hair, and it is well known that certain classes of skilled men, including almost all grades of male servants, such as coachmen, grooms, butlers and gardeners, never tell the truth about their ages.

An Ode of Turkey Time.

Now the turkey steps forth grandly to the center of the stage; Now the publisher gives orders for a turkey sketch-front page; Now the artist turns to turkey in a dull dazed review; Now the bard in desperation wonders what is new to say. The markets groan with turkeys, young and tender, old and tough; There is turkey all about us, but we cannot get enough.

There are turkeys adolescent; there are turkeys in their teens; There are turkeys in the papers; turkeys in the magazines; There are turkeys in the stories; there are turkeys in the news; There are turkeys in the columns of the dignified reviews; There are turkeys in the love tales; there are turkeys in the books; There are turkeys simply fashioned; there are turkeys quite de luxe.

There are turkeys in the poems; there are turkeys in the plays; There are turkeys in the ovens; there are turkeys on the drays; There are turkeys in the grab bag at the sewing circle's fair; There are turkeys in the kitchen; there are turkeys on the stair; There are turkeys in the yard; For the frost is on the pumpkin, and the turkey's on the bard.

There's an endless flow of turkeys from the village, vale and farm. And the turkey ridden husband takes a turkey on his arm; There are turkeys in the street cars; there are turkeys in the vans; There are turkeys in the barrels, boxes, bags, crates, bales and cans. But over and beyond it all an hour of bliss I see.

When the turkey's on the table—then it's good enough for me.

Mother's Friend

To be beautiful is to be loved by all. If there lives the woman who is indifferent to this she is yet to be heard of. Yet from time immemorial society has recognized what we have thought to be a delicate in the way of such a realization. The bearing of children has meant to them the marring of physical beauty of figure, without which beauty of face would be of little account. Nothing could be more remote from truth than this; childbirth is purely a natural phenomenon, accompanied by pain, to be sure, but if properly managed no more harmful in its effects upon the human divine than any other natural function.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

is essential in the proper management of every case of labor; it relaxes and softens the abdominal muscles, thereby enabling them to sustain the stretching that they must undergo, and from this very fact it facilitates their return to normal proportions after childbirth, and it is obvious that pain must be greatly lessened from this very reason. It is a liniment, it is harmless, it is potent, it is priceless in its results, it is Mother's Friend. $1.00 per bottle at drug stores. Our book of priceless value sent free to all women.

QUAIL AND RABBIT SEASON OPENS.

* The hunting season for quail and rabbits is on. It opened this morning, November 15, and lasts * * * till December 5

* Quail are reported rather scarce * * * in this section, due to the long and * * * severe winter.

* Rabbits are not as plentiful as * * * before. This is due to the unusually wet spring this year.

* Pertinent extracts from Sections * * * 15 and 16 of fish and game laws * * * of Ohio for 1904 and 1905:

* Quail—"No person shall within * * * this state catch, kill, injure or pursue with such intent any Virginia * * * partridge or quail except from the * * * 15th day of November to the 5th * * * day of December."

* Rabbits—"The above is identical * * * with the one that applies to the * * * festive bunny."

Messrs. E. S. Browne and W. A. Veach have gone to Jackson county, Ohio, where they will spend a few days hunting.

J. L. Worth, Panhandle ticket agent, leaves today for the Indian Territory, where he will spend two weeks hunting large and small game.

Among those who are scouting the fields today in search of quail are Fred King and Dr. Edwin Nichols. As both are crack shots, it is expected that they will return home loaded with game.

F. J. Bader, Frank Gates, T. W. Tabler, E. W. Murphy, George Bader and W. J. Steinkemper were among the Newark nitrods who went out this morning to bag quail.

Willis Rotkins was out bright and early Tuesday after the birds.

THE RAILWAYS

B. & O. OFFICIALS WORKING ON WINTER TIME CARD.

L. & N. and Atlantic Coast Line Decision Reversed—Local and General News.

The B. & O. officials at this point are engaged in preparing the winter time card. Quite a number of important changes will be made in the running of trains, but at this writing nothing definite has been determined upon. It is assumed, however, that No. 7, the B. & O. express which now reaches this city at 9:30 a. m. will arrive two hours earlier, and that No. 17 which now leaves Newark at 8:10 a. m. will leave at 7 o'clock. It has not been decided whether the World's Fair train will be kept on or not.

Decision Reversed. Washington, Nov. 15.—The decision of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit in the case of the State of Georgia against the Louisville and Nashville railroad and the Atlantic Coast Line company was reversed by the Supreme Court of the United States, Justice Holmes delivering the opinion.

The case originated in the state's effort to collect taxes on stock of the Western railway of Alabama, held in Georgia, notwithstanding the railroad is an Alabama corporation.

The Court of Appeals held against this right. Justice Holmes said in his opinion that under the constitution and laws of Georgia the Comptroller General of the state was bound to collect the tax.

The defendants' companies appear in the case because the Alabama road is controlled by them under lease.

Ohio Railway Deal. Cleveland, O., Nov. 15.—The Erie railroad, it is said, has closed a deal for the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton and the Cleveland Leaf railroads, subject to a physical and financial inspection of the two lines.

This news was published here as the first definite information regarding the transaction, of which much has been said during the last few days. The Erie, it has been known, has wanted a more vital connection with the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton. The fact that the Cleveland Leaf and the Erie have been looking to one another for future relations is also known and understood in railroad circles. Now that the Erie has got into a place where expansion must be made, and the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton has made itself conspicuous by a consolidation of the two railroads have decided to join together.

A Fatal Accident Today. Pittsburg, Nov. 15.—Engineer Geo. Williams of Brownsville, Pa., was killed when his engine ran into an open switch today. Fireman Davidson and brakeman Love were probably fatally hurt.

J. D. Hutcher's Funeral. B. & O. Caller Joseph Dublin, has been granted leave of absence to attend the funeral of his grandfather, the late J. D. Hutcher, formerly foreman of the B. & O. shops, this city, who died so suddenly at St. Thomas' church on Sunday. The funeral was held at St. Thomas' church this morning at 10 o'clock, and the remains were brought to Newark, arriving here at noon and were interred in Mt. Calvary cemetery.

Railway Notes. Conductors A. C. Winters and W. A. Saver are laying off for a few trips. Brakemen J. W. Harden and J. A. Anderson, who have been off duty for a few days, have been marked up for service.

Charles Sebastian has been marked up as extra brakeman on the L. E. division.

Engine 526, after having undergone repairs in the erecting shops, has been turned out for service.

Brakeman Oakleaf has been given leave of absence for a short time.

Conductor D. E. Murphy, after having been off duty for some days, has been marked up for service.

Conductor C. C. Freese has returned to work after having been off for a few trips.

Brakeman W. F. Evans, after a short absence, has been marked up for service.

Ren Mohler, a helper in the shops after being off for some days, on account of sickness, has been marked up for service.

B. & O. engine 1413 has been sent to the shop for repairs.

Edward Holland, a well known Baltimore and Ohio conductor, who has been quite sick at his home on East Main street for some time, has gone to Columbus for treatment.

"SWEET IDA"

GETS NO CASH FROM "HEN" SAYRES OF WAYNESBURG.

This Sensational Breach of Promise Suit Ended in New York Court Today.

New York, Nov. 15.—The jury in the Supreme court which has been hearing the suit brought by Miss Ida Cameron Hayes for $25,000 damages for alleged breach of promise against Henry Clay Sayres, of Waynesburg, Pa., this morning returned a verdict in favor of the defendant.

The case has been causing considerable attention inasmuch as the defendant is 15 years old and has a wife living, while "Sweet Ida" as he termed the plaintiff, is but 25.

Miss Hayes was a tea demonstrator when she met "Hen" Sayres at the Waynesburg county fair in 1927. They became friendly and remained so for four years. During the trial Miss Hayes testified that the break came in 1931, when "Hen" informed her he could not make her his blushing bride for the very sufficient reason that he already had a wife from whom he was not divorced. That same day she instituted her suit for damages to her affections.

During the trial a number of the warmest kind of love avowals in the form of letters from "Hen" to "Sweet Ida" were read. It was testified by the defendant's friends and relatives that Miss Ida knew he was a beneficent Miss Hayes, her mother, and Miss Elizabeth Rodney, a close friend, flatly contradicted the testimony given by these witnesses and said she had absolutely no knowledge that a Mrs. Sayres existed.

SLANDER

ALLEGED BY AGNES HAREN IN HER PETITION

Filed in Common Pleas Court Tuesday in Which She Asks for $5000 Damages.

Agnes Haren, by her attorneys, Smythe & Smythe has filed a petition in the Common Pleas court, wherein she commences suit against Lucy Irwin for $5000 damages for slander. The plaintiff says that in May of 1931, and at other times, the defendant caused it to be believed by neighbors and citizens that she had been guilty of improper conduct. She therefore asks damages in the sum of $5000.

UNION LABEL
Democratic Executive Committee

The members of the Democratic Executive Committee, who conducted the recent campaign in Licking county are deserving of great credit for their intelligent and untiring labors in behalf of the Democratic cause. That those labors were not rewarded with the full measure of success they deserved, is no fault of the committee. Every step in the campaign was conducted with great judgment and foresight and carried out with energy and persistence. Had it not been for the national landslide that swept away all calculations everywhere, the county committee, with the invaluable assistance of the Jefferson club, and the rank and file of the Democrats in Licking county, would have won a splendid victory for the local ticket. As it was, they certainly did splendid work in the polling of the voters, the registration of the voters, in getting the vote out on the day of election and in the general management of the campaign. The chairman of the committee, Mr. E. F. McDonald, was handicapped to some extent by the fact that he was a comparative stranger here, but nevertheless, being full of energy and ability, he made a most vigorous and excellent chairman and Mr. Frank Bolton, as secretary, was intelligent and untiring in his efforts. Great credit, too, we repeat, must be given to the Jefferson club and its members for the invaluable service they rendered in getting the vote registered and in getting it out to the polls.

There is a cry abroad in the land among potato consumers who depend upon the market supply for a tuber which shall possess quality as well as quantity. Many large varieties which promise well at digging time are soon affected by dry rot and at best are tasteless. The importation of potatoes, what there is of it, is due to the demand of foreign born people, especially Germans, who are particular in their choice of food. As a rule, these potatoes are small, with a smooth jacket. They have taste, and they keep well. For this kind of potato the home supply falls short of the demand.

Both belligerents in the east have been reported with much positiveness as having acquired submarine boats. The submarines may not play an important part during the voyage of the Baltic fleet to Asiatic waters, but should surely give a good account of themselves before the war ends or else go out of business. Theoretically they have already decided great naval battles and put an end to warfare on the sea.

It appears that British Ambassador Hardinge carried a gun along, or what amounted to that, when he called upon the Russian foreign minister to notify the government that there were other fishermen on the route of the Baltic fleet than those in the North sea. He was accompanied by a military attaché in uniform and fully equipped. In European circles this fact was looked upon as a threat on the part of England.

Apologies of the North sea incident a United States naval officer says that panics caused the United States blockading ships off Cuba "to fire at each other, at colliers, dispatch boats, torpedo boats and at nothing at all." The terrible fate of the Maine was not speedily forgotten by those who were facing similar danger.

Artificial indigo is now manufactured in Germany in large quantities, and the low prices asked for it have tended to reduce the production of the natural indigo in East India. The latter country exported only 65,000 hundredweight of indigo last year, against 170,000 hundredweight five years ago.

Bloody Battles of Modern Times.
General Methuen's excited dispatch from the field at Magersfontein, in South Africa, that he had "fought the bloodiest battle of modern times" earned for him no end of ridicule. Russian and Japanese generals are at least modest in their reports and show no disposition to boast of record making feats. It is easy to exaggerate the terrors of battle, for as a rule any description, by participant or spectator, can only refer to a portion of the field. It is likewise natural that figures of losses may be exaggerated through carelessness, haste or the zeal of under-officers and even of enlisted men who have responsibility in the work of gathering and burying the dead. And the exaggerations of generals in stating the number of the enemy's dead are notorious. This is not always due to intention, but results in part from the rash claims of subordinates whose figures cannot be verified. The first formal statistics of losses in the civil war were given to the public twenty years after Appomattox, and by a curious error Grant's losses in the Wilderness were overstated by about 20,000, and only an expert could detect the error. It was due to a misquotation of the official figures compiled by the surgical bureau.

The subject of battle losses is a gruesome one to consider, but only by reiteration can the horrors of war be brought home to the public mind and conscience. The little end of every bloody battle is terrible. The cumulation of horrors in prodigious combats like those of the Wilderness, Gettysburg, Antietam, Chickamauga, Liaobang and Sha river, not to speak of the countless fields of slaughter on European soil within the century, cannot do otherwise than "stagger humanity" even when the point of view is no more than a summary of the losses. The figures may mean one in every ten shot down in an army of 100,000, and they may mean one in every two shot down in certain regiments, certain brigades or certain divisions, as happened again and again in the civil war. At Gettysburg the First Minnesota lost 215 killed and wounded out of a total of 252 in line in the space of ten minutes, a loss of about eight in every ten engaged. On the same field the Twenty-seventh North Carolina in one day's battle lost 588 killed and wounded out of 800 in line.

At Antietam the First Texas regiment lost 186 out of 226 in a single charge, a loss equal in percentage to that of the First Minnesota. At Cold Harbor the First Maine artillery went into a charge with 832 men and, while under fire but seven minutes, lost 632 killed and wounded. There were fifty-three Confederate regiments in which the loss for each in some particular engagement exceeded 50 per cent, or one in every two, and the casualties ranged as high as 80 per cent, or eight in every ten actually present in the fight. In the Federal armies there were sixty-three regiments which lost over 50 per cent in single battles. At Gettysburg the First corps, entire, lost 67 per cent in killed and wounded, and Hancock's Second corps on the same field lost over 40 per cent. It is plain that had the armies of the civil war equaled in numbers those fighting in Manchuria the losses would have been computed by the hundreds of thousands instead of tens of thousands. Reports from the east state that certain regiments have been wiped out in the prolonged fighting at Liaoyang and at the Sha river, both battles of many days' duration. In every case cited above the regimental losses given were sustained in one day, often in a single charge of a few minutes, and the figures are official, verified by the war department records.

The proportion of dead in battle casualties depends upon the intensity of the fighting. In isolated cases the number of killed outright and mortally wounded will equal the wounded who recover. It has been assumed that the wounded in the Manchurian battles should be estimated as five times as great as the dead, but that assumption is wrong if the fighting was phenomenally severe. The First Maine heavy artillery at Cold Harbor lost 210 killed and 422 wounded. The First Minnesota at Gettysburg lost in the same proportion, the casualties being 15 killed and 140 wounded.

As a rule, every soldier on the line of battle stands one chance in ten of being hit, which gives nine chances in his favor. But if he gets into a slaughter pen his chances of escape may be reduced to two in ten, which is but little short of massacre. Actual massacres have been rare in modern wars. American history knows of but one, Alamo. There the Texans did not expect quarter from the Mexicans and resolved to sell their lives dearly. There is an unwritten law that resistance should cease the moment it is seen to be hopeless.

A French physician proposes to free the blood from toxic substances by literally washing out the blood. The method is a daring and critical one and consists of withdrawing the blood from a punctured vein and mixing it with ten times its volume of saline solution. Subsequently the surplus diluting liquid is drawn off and the re-constituted blood returned to the system.

PROPOSED GAS FRANCHISE

New Measure Offers No Better Terms Than One in Force.

Reports on Water Works and City Light Plant Submitted

Locust Street and High Street Sewers--Mayor Reports Big Collection--Jones Plat Accepted--Registrars to be Paid--Proceedings of Council.

Monday night's meeting of the Newark City Council was important in that the proposed natural gas franchise was introduced, and reports on the waterworks proposition and on the municipal electric light plant were made.

The Council by ordinance accepted the Jones' heirs' plat and referred the Brubaker's addition to committee.

A movement to construct a sewer on Locust street between Fifth and Eighth, and also on High street, was started.

The people at the general election held on November 8th, by an overwhelming vote decided in favor of granting the Heisey company a natural gas franchise. While no terms were named, the general impression was that by allowing a competing company to enter the local field the price of gas would be reduced. The gas franchise introduced Monday night and given its first reading, differs in no respect from the franchise granted to the Newark Natural Gas and Fuel company. The price named in the two ordinances is the same. Just how the people are to be benefited by the passage of this measure does not at present seem quite clear. To be sure the new company to establish itself might cut the price of gas under the franchise rate, but it is equally reasonable to assume that a combination between the two companies might be effected.

Now is the time to see that the right figures are inserted in the franchise ordinance. There will be little, if any advantage in granting this franchise unless the people obtain some benefit by it. The Advocate is in favor of granting the Heisey company a franchise but it is also in favor of placing the maximum charge for gas under the price named in the old franchise.

The City Council met Monday night with President pro tem Wm. E. Miller in the chair and the following members present: Messrs. Baker, Carlin, Conral, Jones and Moser.

The meeting was one that had been adjourned from November 7th. The minutes of the two preceding meetings were read and approved.

Mayor Reports Big Collection.
Mayor Crilly reported $280.50 collected during October in fines and licenses which report was received and filed.

The Board of Public Service recommended that the plat of the heirs of W. M. Jones be accepted, for their addition to the city of Newark.

City Auditor Maurath reported in detail the vote on the Heisey franchise that had been cast at the recent election.

High Street Sewer Wanted.
A petition was read from property owners on High street asking for a sewer. Referred to Board of Public Service.

Heisey Gas Franchise.
An ordinance granting a franchise to A. H. Heisey to lay mains for natural gas throughout the city was read for the first time and referred to the committee on Board of Public Service.

The ordinance grants the franchise for 25 years and fixes the maximum rate at 25 cents per thousand cubic feet, and in no way differs from the franchise granted to the Newark Natural Gas and Fuel company. The measure will come up at the next regular meeting for second reading.

To Pay Registrars.
An ordinance was passed under a suspension of the rules, appropriating $160 to pay registrars of election.

Jones Plat Accepted.
An ordinance was passed accepting the plat of W. M. Jones' heirs, and one was introduced establishing a sidewalk line on Riley street, which was referred to the Board of Public Service.

Brubaker Plat Referred.
An ordinance by Mr. Jones, accepting the plat of P. W. Brubaker's first addition, was referred to the Board of Public Service.

Resolutions were introduced at Monday night's meeting as follows:

Water Main Extension.
By Mr. Moser--That Board of Public Service have made plans, specifications, and estimates of cost for the extension of water mains in West Newark. Referred to the solicitor.

Gates at Crossings.
By Mr. Jones--Instructing law committee to confer with the E. & O. officials as to whether they will establish gates at several crossings.

Locust Street Sewer.
By Mr. Moser--Directing the Board of Public Service to have plans and specifications made for a 15 inch sanitary sewer on Locust street from Eighth to Fifth street; adopted.

Light Plant Report.
The following report was made by the special committee appointed to examine into the condition of the municipal light plant:

To the Honorable City Council:
Gentlemen--Your committee, to whom was referred the matter of the condition of the Municipal Light Plant, beg to report as follows:

Your committee invited two expert electricians to visit the plant, examine the machinery, and report to your committee its condition and any recommendations as to what should be done to give the city the best results, and we herewith attach said expert's report; and taking this report as a basis it is the opinion of your committee as the plant seems too valuable to be discarded, and desiring to protect the city and taxpayers from the burden of additional bond issue at this time your committee recommends the repairing of the present machinery, that will give the city good service for several years.

Your committee appreciates the demand for additional lights for our growing city, deem it advisable to arrange, if possible for current for 50 additional lights for present need, and the experts advise us that a central circuit could be arranged for 50 lights whereby we could get temporary relief and in a very short time, and at a cost that would be as cheap as the municipal plant could make same.

We further recommend that the Board of Public Service investigate at once, and see if any such arrangement can be made that the city districts now in the dark may have light.

Respectfully submitted,
WM. E. MILLER.

Waterworks Report.
The following report was submitted by W. E. Miller, Rees R. Jones and J. R. Moser, regarding the test made of pipe taken from two different sections of the city, that had been laid by the Newark Waterworks company:

To the Honorable Council of the City of Newark, Ohio.
Gentlemen--Your committee appointed to investigate the condition of the Newark, Ohio, Water Company's plant, respectfully submit the following report:

Believing that this investigation of the water works property at this time is of such great importance to the citizens and tax payers of this city, your committee have endeavored to be thorough in such examinations as they have made, although it has necessarily taken considerable time to do so. As the pipe lines are a vital feature of a water system, we desired to know beyond any doubt, their actual condition. We therefore designated two places from the mains laid in the original system in 1886, one on South Fourth street, between Main street and the Ohio Canal, the other on North Third street in front of the First Presbyterian church, where a full section of the water mains, 12-feet in length and 6 and 12-inches respectively in diameter, were cut out and removed from the trenches. These two lengths of pipe were sent to the Pipe Foundry at Columbus, Ohio, where they were tested by hydraulic pressure to 300 pounds or upwards to the square inch, by the manager, Mr. Perkins. In the presence of your committee, and several citizens who accompanied us as evidenced by the affidavit of Mr. Perkins attached to the report.

The pipes were subjected to the maximum pressure of the testing pump, and were found perfect in every particular. We were informed that the standard test on new pipes at present is from 225 to 250 pounds per square inch.

The pieces of the pipe exposed and removed from the mains, were free from any evidence of corrosion or deterioration whatever. The original coating of tar on the pipe was apparently in perfect condition. We also find that these pipes are heavier than the specifications for the same sized pipe furnished at present, while the grain of the iron as shown by fracture or cutting, was softer and tougher in the old pipes than in the new ones used to replace them. We requested that the sections of pipe which were tested be returned to Newark and placed on exhibition, so that the citizens who desire can see for themselves.

We visited the pumping station and filter house which is located on 5 1/2-100 acres of land, and found the station to be equipped with two Compound Duplex Condensing engines of 1-1/2 million gallons daily capacity each, manufactured by the Gordon & Maxwell Company of Hamilton, Ohio. We were informed by the engineer that the pumps are run alternately every two weeks, one pump being in reserve, ready to run in case of an accident to the pump in service. That the present requirements of water to supply the city is approximately 1 3/4 million gallons daily.

The boiler room has a battery of three 80-horsepower tubular boilers, brick set, with rocker or patent shaking and dumping grate bars. Two of the boilers only are in service at one time, one being kept in reserve for service when washing out and cleaning one of the other boilers or in case of an accident to one of them. The pumps, engine boilers and auxiliary machinery are contained in a brick, slate-roofed building.

The filter plant was completed and put into service two years ago. The system is known as "Mechanical Gravity Filters", manufactured by the New York Continental Jewel Filtration Company of New York. It appears to be perfect and complete in all its appointments and operation. The filters are guaranteed by the manufacturers to treat raw water from the river at high tide, yellow with mud, and deliver it into the clear well free from bacteria and coloring matter, suitable for domestic uses. The filters have a daily capacity of two million gallons, with attachments and space for the addition of an additional million capacity. All contained in a commodious brick, slate roofed, iron trussed building.

The reservoir is located one-half mile northeast from the pump station on the top of the hill and is said to hold 7 and 12 million gallons. It is a nice, clean body of water, the slope inside being riprapped with stone and the outer banks nicely covered with grass, which appears to be in a very permanent condition. There are 24 1/2 acres of land owned by the company, on which said reservoir is located.

We are informed that in May, 1903, both of the pumping engines were taken down and thoroughly overhauled by an expert machinist with special tools from the shop of Mr. Renton at Pitsburg, and the machine shops of this city. The boilers were also overhauled by Mr. Wm. Tucker of this city and reset in the brick settings, and equipped with new firebrick linings throughout.

After a careful and thorough examination, we find the pumps, machinery, filters and buildings to be in excellent operating condition.

Your committee has carefully examined the map showing the location and size of the present pipe lines, hydrants and valves; also the proposed extensions and reinforcing mains designed to give more and better fire protection to the large and varied manufacturing interests in and around the city. We are informed that such additional reinforcing mains will supply from 12 to 15 efficient fire streams concentrated on a fire. The extensions, some 15 to 18 miles of mains shown on streets not heretofore supplied, are apparently much needed for fire protection and domestic service, and with some slight modifications and extensions are well distributed. The additional mains contemplate a duplicate force main to the pumping station. The water system for this city will then approximate 52 miles and over 400 fire hydrants.

Your committee finds the following contract between the city and the Waterworks Company.
"The City of Newark shall have the right at any time after the expiration of ten years, to purchase the said water works at an appraised valuation, which shall be ascertained by the estimate of three engineers; one to be selected by the City Council, one by the party of the second part or their assigns, and these two to select the third; provided that nothing shall be paid for the unexpired franchise of said company."

In view of the foregoing your committee respectfully recommends that your honorable body take the necessary steps to have an appraisal made of the Waterworks Company's property, with a view of determining its value and the price at which the city can purchase it.
In conclusion we desire to say that in this examination we have been afforded every facility to aid us in our work by the Water Company.
Very respectfully submitted,
Committee.

coating of tar on the pipe was apparently in perfect condition. We also find that these pipes are heavier than the specifications for the same sized pipe furnished at present, while the grain of the iron as shown by fracture or cutting, was softer and tougher in the old pipes than in the new ones used to replace them. We requested that the sections of pipe which were tested be returned to Newark and placed on exhibition, so that the citizens who desire can see for themselves.

We visited the pumping station and filter house which is located on 5 1/2-100 acres of land, and found the station to be equipped with two Compound Duplex Condensing engines of 1-1/2 million gallons daily capacity each, manufactured by the Gordon & Maxwell Company of Hamilton, Ohio. We were informed by the engineer that the pumps are run alternately every two weeks, one pump being in reserve, ready to run in case of an accident to the pump in service. That the present requirements of water to supply the city is approximately 1 3/4 million gallons daily.

In spite of the increase in number of railroad trains throughout Germany, the number of accidents which happened during the year 1903 was considerably smaller than in previous years. The casualties were about 10 per cent less than last year or about 2,000. Railroad officials in that country are taught to value their lives, even at the cost of running a train behind the schedule.

EDGEWOOD BOTTLED IN BOND
When a distiller takes a drink, he gets it out of the original barrel and Uncle Sam thinks you should have the same privilege. He makes it possible for you to get it by having it bottled under his own supervision and puts a little Green Government Stamp over the cork to GUARANTEE that it is the same. He also tells you when it was made, where it was made, and when it was bottled. Isn't that the kind of whiskey you want to buy for yourself and family? Keep a bottle in the house for medicinal purposes. Have your dealer show you the little government stamp on the cork, and if he can't, write us and we'll show you how to get it.

AMUSEMENTS

DOWN ON THE FARM.

For the first time in Newark, the beautiful farm play, "Down on the Farm," with Charles Manley in the cast, will make its appearance at the Auditorium on Wednesday evening, November 16. This is a quaint drama of Yankee farm and village life with a hero who is Eben Holger, a twin brother. The production is meeting with a hearty reception wherever produced, and from the advance sale which opened this morning, will be greeted with a crowded house tomorrow evening. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents.

DE WOLF HOPPER'S RECORD.

In the fall of 1883, De Wolf Hopper, who as "Wang" is the now celebrated Shubert Lyric theatre revival of the famous comic opera of this title will be the attraction at the Auditorium on Friday evening November 18, was engaged by the McCaull opera company, and at the same moment, was called upon to take the role of Pomeroy in "Desire," which was brought out at the Broad street opera house in Philadelphia in October. He made a success of this, and forthwith was established as the main comedian of Colonel McCaull's forces. During the five years that he was under the McCaull banner, Hopper appeared in all sorts of parts, the principal ones being "The Black Hussar," "The Beggar Student," "Die Fledermaus," "The Lady or the Tiger," "Don Caesar," "Lorraine," "Bellman," "Josephine Sold by Her Sister," "Folback," "Falka," "Boccaccio," "The Crowning Hen," "Clover," "Fatinza," "The Begon," and "Captain Fracassée." His two most successful characters and the only two worthy of especial commendation in the whole list, were General Ollendorf in "The Beggar Student," with its famous song, "In a Moment of Rapture," and Pausanias in "The Lady or the Tiger."

Mr. Hopper began his starring career in 1886, and the first opera brought out was "Castles in the Air." The following season "Wang," his present vehicle, was produced, and this was a great success. Hopper presented this for two seasons, and then came "The Pajandrum," which did very well for a single season. "Dr. Syntax," which was simply Robertson's "School," set to music, was produced in October, 1898, and did well enough until a successor was found in "El Capitán," which was brought out in Boston, on April 13, 1896. Then followed "The Charleston," and "Mr. Pickwick." As side issues, Mr. Hopper has once in a while made lapses into the field of comedy. He has played Falstaff in "The Merry Wives of Windsor," and David in a star production of "The Rivals," with a cast that included Joseph Jefferson as Bob Acres, N. C. Goodwin as Sir Lucius O'Trigger, and William Crane as Sir Anthony. At the close of the season of 1897-98 Mr. Hopper took his company to London where he presented "El Capitán" with astonishing success. This was followed by "Wang," under the title of "The Magic Kiss," and this also did well until the war with the Boers in South Africa drew a dark curtain over theatrical affairs in England, and sent the Americans home in a rush.

THE HOLY CITY.

The Erie, Pa. Sunday Messenger Graphic speaks of "The Holy City" as a magnificent production. This attraction will soon appear at the Auditorium.

ELI AND JANE.

Coming soon, "Eli and Jane." It's a great funny show. "Ree" Bush of Newark, as "Jane." Date, Nov. 29.

MY WIFE'S FAMILY.

At the Auditorium soon Hal Stephens and Harry Linton will produce their newest farcical success, "My Wife's Family." The mere fact of the company being headed by these gentlemen is proof positive that the show will be all that is claimed for it. The piece is not a "rehash" version of something seen here before, but positively new and up-to-date and will be produced by the original New York cast, among whom will be found Anita Lawrence, Isabel Allan, Mabelle Grey, Blanche Brennan, Marie Roslyn, J. Edward Pierce, Tom Lee, H. B. Pierce, James C. Murphy, Royce Alton and a few others well known in the musical and comedy line.

OLEY SPEAKS.

Newark people will have an opportunity of hearing Oley Speaks, the great New York baritone, who appears in Recital hall, Gr. Hall, tomorrow (Wednesday) evening. Mr. Speaks is a native of our own state, but for a number of years has been very successful as a choir and concert singer in New York City. He is a young man who has made his own way to a high rank among musicians by sheer force of talent and earnest work. Every one enjoys hearing a big, manly voice, and it is hoped that a large number of the music loving people of Newark will hear him. You can have your tickets reserved by telephoning to the book-store, Granville.

GOODWIN IN "THE USURPER."

America's foremost player, N. C. Goodwin, in his latest comedy drama, "The Usurper," is the coming attraction at the Great Southern theatre at Columbus, Wednesday night, Nov. 16. Of this piece it is said that it is original, clever, concise and contains situations new to the stage, besides offering to Mr. Goodwin one of the best opportunities of his career for clever character delineation. That Mr. Goodwin will make much of them goes without saying. The piece itself received the plaudits from both press and public during its long run in Chicago also in St. Louis and Cincinnati, and the star was in the cities greeted by continuous ovations. The production is the largest that Mr. Goodwin has ever carried. Everything used upon the stage is tasteful and harmonious.

"THE WINTER'S TALE."

The theatre-going public surely owes Viola Allen a vote of thanks for her performance and production of "Twelfth Night" of last season. A more delightful entertainment has not been seen on the stage for many years. Miss Allen's success was triumphant. This season she is appearing as Hermione and Perdita in "The Winter's Tale," to be presented at the Great Southern Thursday evening at Columbus. That Miss Allen will delight her audience as completely this year as last seems beyond question. "The Winter's Tale" is a great play and it is presented magnificently, and with a fine cast.

CENTURY IN 1905

It Will be a Necessity in Every Home Where People Think—Some of the Leading Features.

To read the plans of The Century for the year 1905 is, with most persons, to decide to own the magazine, for the list of artists and writers is more attractive than ever before. Three serials arouse special interest: "Sandy," by Mrs. Alice Hegan Rice, author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and "Lovey Mary," a new novel from the fascinating pen of Mrs. Humphry Ward, and a novel, "Rose o' the River," by Kate Douglas Wiggin. There will be short stories, too, from the world's best and most popular writers of fiction: Rudyard Kipling, Anthony Hope, Jack London, Marion Crawford, Ruth McEnery Stuart, Owen Wister, Miriam Michaelson, Irving Batcheller, Booth Tarkington, and scores of others.

Beginning in the December issue are Ambassador White's reminiscences of his mission to Germany from 1897 to 1902, one of the most notable series of memories recently published. During 1905 Charles F. Brush will write for The Century of the invention and present status of "The Arc-Light," Geo. Westinghouse, of "The Air-Brake," Nikola Tesla, of "The Transmission of Power," Frank J. Sprague, of "Electric Traction," Melville E. Stone, manager of that great organization, the Associated Press, will describe its origin and methods, its collection and distribution of news, its operation in Europe, and its service in war-time. There will be articles of general scientific interest and importance from Professor Henry Fairfield Osborn, Gilbert H. Grosvenor, Professor Russell H. Chittenden, Frank N. Chapman, and Helen Keller. American architecture will be treated at length, special papers covering "The New Naval Academy," "The New Customhouse in New York," "The New Congressional Buildings," "The Capitol Extension," "The New National Museum," and "The New York Public Library." And other features of the year will be a series of papers telling of historic homes in France, with illustrations by Jules Guerin and Andre Castaigne. And it is promised that the East and its interests, that field to which all eyes are turning today, will be treated in a number of valuable and important articles. The art features of The Century have always been of notable beauty—1905 will advance the standard.

The value of The Century in any home cannot be estimated. It means hours of entertainment. It means acquaintance with the best of modern art. It means accurate and intimate knowledge of all important investigations in science and of all reform movements and interests. It means friendship with the best writers of the day. It means culture.

The Exact Thing Required for Constipation.

LOSES

Fortune of Millions If Charges of Theft Are Proved Against McGregor.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Friends from quarters unknown and unthought of have rallied to the support of Ambrose McGregor, the alleged "second" Raffles, in his fight to escape prison and save the fortune of $12,000,000 to which he is heir, and which will be taken from him if the charges now made by the police are proved true.

Loyal to her husband in adversity, his wife was the first to protest his innocence. Then came lawyers, paid friends, and lastly Kyrie Believ, the actor, now playing the part of "Raffles," in a Chicago production, says that he will be willing to pay whatever his alleged imitator has taken, "because he is such a weak Raffles."

Young McGregor who is only 25 years old, heir to a fortune that would place him beyond the dream of average men, was accused in the Thirty-first street police court of rifling the till at Louis Musser's saloon at 247 Thirty-seventh street and breaking open the telephone box in the plumbing store of J. M. Collins at 324 Thirty-seventh street and abstracting the nickels therefrom. After his arrest it is asserted he attempted to commit suicide with acid.

The aunt of the man now behind the bars, accused of being a thief, has a fortune of $12,000,000 and the family had planned that the bulk of this money should go to Ambrose Jr., named after his uncle. But the aunt declares she will let him off without a shilling if he does not prove his innocence.

Application of McGregor's counsel, for a continuance being granted, Justice Hurley fixed the bail at $500 for each charge of theft, and $200 for the charge of disorderly conduct.

Melody Loses Championship. Chicago, Nov. 15.—Billy Melody of Boston, the white welterweight champion of America, lost his title to Buddy Ryan of Chicago. The men met at the Harlem Athletic club for a bout of ten rounds, but Melody was knocked out after two minutes of fighting. When they came together in the first round Ryan landed a right hook on Melody's jaw and the latter took the count of nine before he rose to his feet. The blow took all the fight out of Melody, and in a few seconds he was knocked down again. When he rose for the second time he was weak and bewildered, and Ryan had no trouble in sending a straight right to the jaw that put Melody out for good.

Fairbanks to Attend. Indianapolis, Nov. 15.—Senator Charles W. Fairbanks vice president-elect, and Mrs. Fairbanks will go to Connecticut the last of this week to see the football game Saturday between Harvard and Yale at Yale, where their two sons, Richard and Robert, are students. Senator Fairbanks will go from Yale to New York City, where he has matters that will engage his time for a few days.

Tric Meeker Claims. Columbus, O., Nov. 15.—Probate Judge Black has ordered the O'Neil Stock and Grain company, of Cincinnati, to pay to E. T. Powell and Chas. Case, assignee of Claude Meeker, who made an assignment several days ago, all claims, amounting to about $150,000. The order was at once forwarded to Cincinnati.

Congress Is Dry. Wooster, O., Nov. 15.—A local option election in the village of Congress resulted: Wets 14, dry 23.

Canal Claims Settled. Cleveland, O., Nov. 15.—At the conclusion of a conference here attended by H. R. Probasco of Cincinnati, an attorney representing various creditors of the Miami and Erie Canal company, and H. E. McGrew of this city, an attorney representing the canal company, C. W. Fuller, referee in the legal entanglements of the company, and other interested parties, it was announced that a practical settlement of all financial difficulties of the canal company was reached. It was stated that nearly all outstanding claims had been bought in, and that as a result, the receiver for the property probably will be removed soon.

Ohio Case In Supreme Court. Washington, Nov. 15.—Replying to questions in the case of Maria F. Thomas and George Folsom against the board of trustees of the Ohio State university, the supreme court of the United States, in an opinion delivered by Justice Harlan, held that under the decisions of the Ohio state supreme court the board is not a corporation in the sense that it may sue and be sued as a citizen of Ohio in the circuit court of the United States. The case grows out of a suit by Mrs. Thomas to compel a partition of lands claimed by her and Folsom and held by the trustees.

Ordinance Vetoed. Toledo, O., Nov. 15.—Mayor Finch sent to the city council his veto of the ordinance passed by that body Oct. 31, granting a renewal of the franchise rights of the Toledo Railways & Light company for 25 years upon a basis of seven tickets for a quarter for ten years and eight tickets for a quarter for the remaining 15 years. A communication was also received from the Toledo Railways & Light company, declining to accept such an ordinance. The council by unanimous vote passed a resolution that it never passed a franchise, less advantageous to the city.

Springfield Awarded Franchise. South Bend, Ind., Nov. 15.—Before leaving for Indianapolis, where a Central league meeting will be held, Dr. F. R. Carson, chairman of the circuit committee, announced that only one change would be made in the makeup of the league, Marion's franchise being transferred to Springfield, O., where the son of former Governor Bushnell has organized a company. It is thought that Dr. Carson will succeed G. W. Bement of Evansville, as president, and Isadore Mautner will replace William Heiderman as vice president.

Property Identified. Mansfield, O., Nov. 15.—The local manager for the Standard Oil company and the chief of police went to Chicago Junction, O., and identified some of the property found on the five alleged soblovers arrested there Saturday. The safe in the Standard Oil company's office here was blown open and robbed Friday night and also a Baltimore & Ohio railroad tool house. Sufficient evidence against the five men was found to warrant their being brought back here.

ACTRESS

Died of Heart Failure While In Surf at San Diego—With Glittering Gloria Company.

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 15.—Miss Isidore Rush, the actress, leading lady of the "Glittering Gloria" company, which was to have begun an engagement here, died of heart failure while bathing in the surf near this city, death being due to the shock caused when an immense wave caught her and carried her into deep water. Half a dozen members of the company were at the time in the surf, which was unusually high. When a spectator noted the struggles of Miss Rush, assistance was at once rushed to her, but she was unconscious when brought to shore. Physicians were called and everything possible was done to revive the unfortunate woman, but in vain.

Elects Alva Adams, a Democrat, for Governor, but Mr. Peabody Threatens Contest.

Denver, Nov. 15.—The official canvass of the vote cast last Tuesday is in progress and has been completed in but few counties. Revision of the unofficial returns leaves Alva Adams' majority over James H. Peabody for governor not less than 10,000 as previously announced. "We consider Governor Peabody's threat to contest the election a mere bluff," said Democratic Chairman Milton Smith, "but we are watching everything." Chairman D. B. Fairley of the Republican state central committee said: "When our returns are all in, I estimate that Governor Peabody will be but a trifle over 500 behind. We are satisfied that he was the victim of a conspiracy and intend contesting every ground."

The Baltic Fleet. St. Petersburg, Nov. 15.—Although the Baltic fleet received an enthusiastic greeting at Dakar, French Africa, the governor of the province informed Admiral Rodjestvensky that he must leave, as a dispatch from Paris forbade coaling in French territorial waters. The fact that the Russians had to go outside the port of an ally is causing much comment.

EXECUTION

Orders Regarding the Employment of Sewing Women Has Been Ignored.

Washington, Nov. 15.—It appears from developments that President Roosevelt's directions regarding the employment of sewing women at the Schuylkill arsenal in Philadelphia have not been carried into effect. Michael Francis Doyle of Philadelphia, representing the sewing women, called on the president and informed him that his orders had not been heeded and that only a part of the work had been restored to the women. He pointed out that the making of trousers, which amounts to about $500,000 a year, had been withheld from the women in direct contravention of the president's orders. After hearing Mr. Doyle's statement, the president sent a note to the war department asking for a report on the matter and calling attention to the fact that he had directed that the work be given to the women.

Greensburg, Pa., Nov. 15.—Rev. Mr. Swiggert of Mt. Pleasant, and Rev. Mr. Hankey of Scottsdale, Lutheran ministers, were attacked on a lonely road last night by two men and were beaten to insensibility after being dragged from a buggy. The wounds of each required several stitches. They were returning from a hunting trip. The object of the assault is unknown.

MOTHER

PHONED POLICE TO ARREST HER SON, SAM.

Chicken Alleged to Have Been Stolen Bucklew Wanted to Sell to His Mother.

Sam Bucklew was arrested for stealing a chicken from a saloon keeper on Wilson street, Monday night. He took the fowl to his home and wanted to sell it to his mother. She became suspicious that he had not come by the chicken honestly and telephoned the police. Bucklew's trial was set for 6 o'clock this evening.

PRINCE

Presented to the President This Morning at Washington—Entertainment Program.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The program for the entertainment of Prince Fushimi, the adopted brother of the emperor of Japan, began at 10 a. m., when he was presented to the president. The prince wore his full uniform when calling at the White house and the state department, but donned civilian dress when calling on the foreign ambassadors. The President returned the call of Prince Fushimi at 3 o'clock. On Wednesday, Assistant Secretary Loomis will give a luncheon in honor of the prince at the New Willard hotel. At the invitation of Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, who is head of the diplomatic corps, Mr. Aspiroff, the Mexican ambassador, will act as dean during the visit of the prince.

EMERGENCY RATION

A man has lived forty days without other food than his own fat.

Fat is man's emergency ration. The fat is stored in convenient hollows all over the body against the day of necessity.

Consumption makes heavy demand on the storage of fat. Nature uses fat to fight the disease. The crying need of the consumptive is fat.

Scott's Emulsion contains the best fat to be had, next to human fat itself. Scott's Emulsion is a natural substitute for human fat. It prevents waste. It furnishes the consumptive with nature's own weapon for fighting the disease.

We'll send you a sample free upon request. SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

Another Fire at Knoxville.
 Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 15.—Knoxville suffered another serious fire in its business district. The Lawson McGhee library building was gutted. The first floor of the building was occupied by the Vance Furniture company. The public library and the Commercial club take up the second floor. The third and top floor was occupied by the Knoxville Business college. All the occupants of the building escaped injury. The loss to the library, Vance Furniture company, Commercial club and Business college will aggregate more than $100,000.

Elections in Italy.
 Rome, Nov. 15.—Definite returns from the second balloting strengthen the majority of the cabinet, while the extreme left lost about 20 seats altogether. Signor Ferri, the Socialist leader, has been elected at Porto Magliore. The defeated Socialists made demonstrations at Milan, Florence and Genoa, but the attempted disorders were quelled by troops. The latter were stoned in Florence, while at Genoa revolvers were fired, and there were several casualties. Order has now been re-established everywhere.

Lamp Exploded.
 Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—The British steamship Rhyndland, which is lying at the foot of Washington avenue, Delaware river, was damaged by fire to the extent of $2,000. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp in the forehold of the steamship. The vessel from serious damage. The Rhyndland is scheduled to sail for Antwerp on Wednesday, but her departure may be delayed until repairs are completed.

Couple Killed in Runaway.
 Appleton, Wis., Nov. 15.—Mr. and Mrs. John Hurst of Hayton, Wis., were accidentally killed in a runaway accident while driving to Chilton to purchase a coffin for James Raleigh, who was burned to death in a fire. Mrs. Hurst was impaled on a picket fence and her husband was thrown to the ground with such violence that death followed in a few hours.

Smallpox Among Students.
 Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 15.—Seven cases of smallpox have been discovered among the students at the University of Michigan. Six are in the engineering, and one is in the law department. Health Officer T. B. Cooley reports that none of the patients is dangerously ill.

Whale Blown Ashore.
 Boston, Nov. 15.—One of the most singular effects of the gale was reported from Pennellville, Me., where a whale 80 feet long was blown ashore. Unable to get back into deep water, the great creature lay helpless on the beach and a bullet from a hunter's rifle ended its life.

Fired When Reproved.
 Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 15.—Because he overloaded a borrowed mule and was reprimanded for it, John Smith shot and killed James Cassidy, the owner of the mule, at Lester, Raleigh county.

Frozen to Death in Virginia.
 Martinsville, Va., Nov. 15.—Thomas Richardson, a Henry county magistrate, aged 50 years, was frozen to death on the public highway.

Lord Selborne's Warning.
 London, Nov. 15.—Lord Selborne, first lord of the admiralty, speaking at Bristol, and referring to Russia's having granted Great Britain's first demands, said the crisis just experienced was an occasion for the country to take stock of its defensive organization; and in dealing with this question it was impossible to ignore the rapid march of the Russian empire toward the Indian frontier. Russia had two railroads terminating at the Afghan frontier, only a matter of 400 miles from the Indian railroad. He hoped there never would be war between the two countries, but Britons were bound to consider what the Russian military organizations had succeeded in achieving in Manchuria at the end of 6,000 miles of a single track railroad line, and to govern military preparations in India accordingly.

Governor Higgins Ill.
 Buffalo, Nov. 15.—Governor-elect Frank W. Higgins has been indisposed since the election. He consulted Dr. Roswell Park, who had treated him several years ago. Dr. Parks said: "Mr. Higgins called upon me professionally and that is all there is to it. His condition is not one to excite alarm or even to require treatment."

Mail Was Lost.
 Berlin, Nov. 15.—The postoffice authorities announce that all mail sent to southwest Africa between Oct. 1 and Oct. 10, consisting of nearly 1,000 packages, was lost when the stranded steamer Edythe Hoynes was plundered by natives on the Liberian coast.

Streeter Released.
 Chicago, Nov. 15.—Cheers and hand-clapping followed an announcement by Judge Dunn granting a writ of habeas corpus for the release from the penitentiary of "Captain" George Wellington Streeter of "The District of Lake Michigan" fame. Streeter was given his freedom on a technicality, namely, delay in executing the order committing him to prison.

Admiral Beaumont Appointed.
 London, Nov. 15.—The appointment of Vice Admiral Sir Lewis A. Beaumont to be British representative on the North sea commission is officially announced. Admiral Beaumont is known in America, having married a daughter of Charles C. Perkins of Boston, Mass.

Twelve Dead From Ice Cream.
 Decatur, Ala., Nov. 15.—Twelve negroes are dead at Cedar Lake, a negro settlement in the suburbs of Decatur, from the effects of poisoned ice cream, which it is said they ate at a church rally.

The Thing Was Dead
Easy For Sonora Sam

"DID you witness the controversy that resulted in the death of the deceased?" asked the coroner blandly.

"Which? Who?" responded the witness.

"I asked you if you witnessed the difficulty in which like there was laid out?"

"That wasn't no difficulty about it, coroner. Yer know I seed it all. Like that just came projectin' around careless like, with his tank full and the flaps of his holsters tucked back, a-lookin' against the landscape bigger'n Mose Pearson's hog corral. He war that fond of himself that he couldn't enjoy the peace and harmony that war prevailin' from the Last Chance saloon to Nell Canty's hurdy gurdy without chippin' into the game when he didn't hold good cards."

"He allowed he war goin' to have a stag dance and have it then. He allowed that Sonora Sam, who war takin' a pasear for a cockail, war the best dancer in the camp and began to shoot at his toes to encourage Sam to be agile. Sam war the limberest man in the territory, coroner, until like's guns war empty, and then—why, coroner, that war'n't no difficulty about it. You see like that. It's a plumb center shot, coroner. But that war'n't no difficulty about it, not that I seed. It war dead easy, coroner, dead easy."—San Francisco Examiner.

The "Caught" House.
 The father of little Henry, who lives in Germantown, had advised his son not to ask so many questions. "When you want to know the meaning of a word or how to spell it," he said, "don't ask me; look it up in the dictionary, and then you'll remember it."

Thus it happened that the other evening little Henry was carefully studying a dictionary while his tired father had just begun to be comfortable in an armchair, with his cigar and newspaper. Soon, however, the young hopeful broke the peace with:

"Say, father?"

"Well, my son?"

"The courthouse is the place where prisoners are taken, isn't it?"

"Yes, my son."

"Well, why don't they spell it c-a-u-s-e-h-o-u-s-e then?"

A short period of absolute silence followed.

"Henry," said his father, "here it is 9 o'clock, and I have told you half a dozen times that sitting up late is bad for little boys. Go to bed at once."—Philadelphia Press.

"Henry," said his father, "here it is 9 o'clock, and I have told you half a dozen times that sitting up late is bad for little boys. Go to bed at once."—Philadelphia Press.

Had Him There.
 The father of little Henry, who lives in Germantown, had advised his son not to ask so many questions. "When you want to know the meaning of a word or how to spell it," he said, "don't ask me; look it up in the dictionary, and then you'll remember it."

Thus it happened that the other evening little Henry was carefully studying a dictionary while his tired father had just begun to be comfortable in an armchair, with his cigar and newspaper. Soon, however, the young hopeful broke the peace with:

"Say, father?"

"Well, my son?"

"The courthouse is the place where prisoners are taken, isn't it?"

"Yes, my son."

"Well, why don't they spell it c-a-u-s-e-h-o-u-s-e then?"

A short period of absolute silence followed.

FORAKER

THE DOMINATING SPIRIT IN OHIO APPOINTMENTS.

Apparant There Will be War to the Knife Between Republican Factions in Ohio.

New York, Nov. 15.—A Washington dispatch to the New York Herald is as follows:

It is apparent that there is still to be war to the knife between the Republican factions in Ohio, headed on the one hand by Senator Foraker and on the other by Senator Dick, Governor Herrick and George B. Cox, the boss of Cincinnati.

There were indications a few days ago that overtures would be made to Senator Foraker by the Dick-Foraker-Cox contingent to compromise the embarrassing situation, but if the triumvirate opposing the Forakerites had any such intention they have certainly changed it.

Sensor Foraker will have none of it. He refuses to go into conference, and will not consent to any agreement in the nature of a compromise of differences. Mr. Foraker issued his ultimatum after a long conference with President Roosevelt. They discussed the Ohio situation at length, and when the Ohio Senator emerged from the White House he threw down the gauntlet to the Dick-Herrick-Cox combination in this fashion:

"I do not intend to hold any conferences with anybody affecting the Ohio State situation. In the first place, I do not believe that this is the time to consider the matter of state nominations, particularly that pertaining to the Governorship."

"It will be time to consider this subject when the party meets in convention in Ohio next June. Then, and not until then, should or can the matter be properly and regularly considered. Conventions are instituted for the purpose of settling such matters and the subject will no doubt be concluded in regular form next June, when our convention meets."

It became manifest yesterday, after Mr. Foraker's conference with the President, that the senior Ohio Senator continues to hold the ear of the President and will be the dominating spirit in all Federal appointments in Ohio. It is believed that Mr. Foraker, in his attitude of defiance to the opposing Republican faction in Ohio, is supported by the Administration.

Sensor Foraker was the original Roosevelt man in Ohio and continued so even when the late Senator Hanna was considered to be in the field. Long ago he predicted one of the biggest votes for President Roosevelt ever given a Republican in Ohio.

IN HIS CHURCH
 Life of Rev. Rainsford was Threatened by a Woman Who Had a Fun in New York Church.

New York, Nov. 15.—According to stories printed here Rev. Dr. William S. Rainsford, rector of St. George Episcopal church and one of the best known clergymen in this city, was threatened by a woman while in his church Sunday. Published accounts show that the woman rushed into the rector's study armed with a revolver and after some conversation threatened to kill him.

Dr. Rainsford's secretary informed the Associated Press that on Sunday morning after the 11 o'clock service several people were gathered before the pulpit to greet the rector. Among them was a woman.

He says there was some conversation, that the woman asked several questions, among them one as to what had been done with her money, which caused Dr. Rainsford to believe that she was irresponsible, and he referred her to the sexton.

Miss Mary Byron was taken into custody yesterday by a detective at noon, and later arraigned in court. Sexton Chapman identified her as the woman who appeared in the church on Sunday. Miss Byron was sent to Bellevue for examination.

HEALTHY PLANTS
 Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most beneficent environment of soil and sunshine and of atmosphere, seemed never to achieve a healthy growth?

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart. You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vaseline, etc.

You must look to the cause of the trouble—its germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out. Newbro's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result.

Cardinal Passes Away.
 Rome, Nov. 15.—Cardinal Meccini, who was administrator of the apostolic palace under Pope Leo XIII, died at the Vatican of paralysis, while the consistory was in progress. Dr. Lanponi, who attended the cardinal until the last moment, went to the apartment of the pope to prepare him for the sad news, fearing that it might have a bad effect on him. The pontiff has not yet quite recovered from his recent illness.

The Land of "Here Insert."

THE land of Hope and of Pretty Soon, The land of Never to Be, And the land of Might and the land of Dreams

Are worked to the limit—see? And other varieties of strange lands Have staided the poet's spirit. But I—sing of whichever you choose— Of the land of (here insert).

Ah, all of the dreams of youth come true In the land of (here insert). The girls have eyes of a wonderful hue In the land of (here insert). Never a sorrow and never a pain, Never a loss, but always gain, Ever the sun and never the rain, In the land of (here insert).

Faith is a fadeless plant that grows In the land of (here insert). And lips make mock of the red June rose In the land of (here insert). And death sits downward soft as sleep On eyes that never have learned to weep, And fine dress patterns are sold quite cheap In the land of (here insert).

And so, kind friends, if you happen to have A special desire to sing A land of any particular style, Yet haven't the time for the thing, Just take the second and third of these Verses (easy as dirt) And put the name of your mythical land Where it tells you "here insert!"

GRANVILLE NEWS

Granville, Nov. 15.—The members of the Travelers' club held their regular meeting in the parlors of the Baptist church on Monday afternoon, when the following program, which was of exceptional merit, was carried out. "Hosiod and His Works," Miss Rose, read by Mrs. Baldwin; reading, "Description of Winter," (Hosiod), Mrs. Charles Rose; "The Oracle," Mrs. Van Kirk. A poem was read at the close of this paper by Mrs. Van Kirk, "Each in His Own Tongue." Those who were in attendance at the meeting had a very enjoyable time.

Quite a number of Granville people, who are interested in the temperance movement, went over to Columbus today to attend the congress of the anti-saloon league, in session in that city.

Miss Fannie Hallisy of Chicago, who has been visiting friends here for the past few days, left for her home this morning.

Mrs. Mary E. White of Newark, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. F. L. Ferguson.

A number of new brick crossings are being put down in the village.

The meeting of the Scientific Association to be held on Friday afternoon of this week will be one of more than ordinary interest. The entire period will be devoted to "A Demonstration and Measurement of the Rotation of the Earth," by Prof. C. W. Chamberlain of the Physics Section. Actual observations will be taken, the calculations will be made and explained, and the amount of rotation of the earth during the meeting will be ascertained. This will certainly be novel and entertaining and the Association room, in Barney Science Hall should be filled when the demonstration begins at 3:30 o'clock.

ALIMONY

Applied for by Mrs. George Grosclaude Who Was Married in Detroit in 1901.

Hattie Grosclaude by her attorney, J. Howard Jones, has filed a petition in the Common Pleas court asking for alimony from her husband, George Grosclaude. The parties were married in Detroit, Mich., on January 21, 1901, and two children, Ethel, aged 3 years, and Albert aged 5 months, were born of the marriage. For cause of action the plaintiff charges the defendant with failure to provide and abandonment. She says her husband is a molder at the Wehrle stove works and earns from $3.50 to $4 per day. She also says that they own a house and lot in Detroit, Mich., which the defendant is attempting to convey away. She asks for reasonable alimony pending the final determination of this suit, and support for herself and children, and that on the final hearing reasonable alimony be decreed her to be paid out of the defendant's property and that an injunction be issued restraining him from disposing of or encumbering his property in any way. An injunction as prayed for was granted by Judge Coyner.

ACCIDENT

Befalls an Airship at St. Louis After Machine Had Been in the Air 15 Minutes.

St. Louis, Nov. 15.—An accident to a propeller brought the test flight of the Francois airship to an abrupt termination after the flying machine had been in the air 15 minutes, during which its dirigibility was not satisfactorily demonstrated, owing, the inventor stated, to the absence of the rudder. The ascension was made at the end of a rope and it was announced that the principal object of the flight was to test the balance of the car, and to ascertain whether the airship could be guided by means of the fans, or propellers, without the use of the rudder.

Wedding of Two Well Known Young People at the First Methodist Parsonage Here.

Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock, Mr. John William Price, a valued employee at Wehrle's, and Mrs. Belle Hart, a highly esteemed lady residing in the west end of this city, were united in marriage by Rev. L. C. Sparks at his home, 59 North Fifth street. Mr. and Mrs. Price will soon go to housekeeping on Thirteenth street. They have many friends who will follow them with best wishes.

INVITATIONS

Are Issued at Dresden for Wedding of Miss Vandenberg and Mr. John T. Riley.

Invitations were issued Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Gershon Vandenberg, of Dresden, announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Alice May, to Mr. John T. Riley, on Wednesday evening, November 23. The announcement of the wedding comes as a surprise to the many friends of the contracting parties. Miss Vandenberg numbers her friends by the score in Dresden, where she is popular in society. Mr. Riley is a prosperous young farmer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Riley, living several miles from Dresden.

WEDDING

Of Popular Young Coming Couple Took Place in Newark—Will be a Surprise.

Mr. George Fenneken and Miss Charlotte Weidenheagen, two estimable young people of Corning, O., were married Monday evening. The young people who have been "keeping company" for five years, left Corning on Monday, and came to Newark without letting their friends know where they were going. Upon their arrival here they repaired to the residence of Rev. William A. Berger, on German street, where they were married, after which they went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roesser, on Popular avenue, who are old friends of the young couple, and partook of a sumptuous supper that had been prepared for them. Mr. and Mrs. Fenneken will remain in Newark for several days, when they will return to Corning, where Mr. Fenneken is engaged in business with his father. May they live long and be happy.

MARRIAGE

Of Mr. Fred R. Hunt of Cleveland, and Miss Louise Webber of Locust Street Monday.

A wedding took place at the Second Presbyterian manse at 7:30 Monday evening, when Mr. Fred R. Hunt of Cleveland, O., was united in marriage to Miss Louise Webber, Rev. T. A. Cosgrove performing the ceremony. The bride is a daughter of Mr. Bayard Webber of West Locust street, and looked sweet in a pretty suit of brown. She was accompanied by her brother, Mr. Willard Webber. The groom is a well known traveling man of Ohio's metropolis. The happy couple left at 8:20 via B. & O. to spend a week in Toledo. They will make their future home in Cleveland.

WEDDING THIS EVENING.

At Outville this evening at 6:30 Miss Cora Alice Rogers and Mr. Oliver Whitehead will be married.

SLOWLY

Is the Weber Murder Case Progressing at Auburn—The Weapon Not Found.

Auburn, Cal., Nov. 15.—The Weber murder case is progressing slowly, as nothing can be done until the entire ruins have been run through the miner's sluice box. The weapon that was used to commit the murders has not been found. If the 32 caliber revolver is not found there will be proof that Julius Weber, the father, did not commit the crime. The officers are in possession of evidence that points strongly toward Adolph Weber as the man who robbed the Placer County bank last May. The coroner's inquest will be resumed on Wednesday. The feeling against Young Weber is running high.

STORM

Is Described by Mr. George Bausch, Who Was in the Midst of It Last Sunday.

George Bausch, who returned home from New York on Monday, gives a thrilling account of the terrific storm that passed over the country on Sunday. He says that his train struck the storm when fifteen miles out of Harrisburg, Pa., and that it was one of the worst he ever experienced. He says that telegraph poles were blown down in great numbers, that the wires were cut in two by the engine and that several poles fell on the train, one of them falling across the tank of the engine. Had the engine not been running slowly no doubt a terrible wreck would have occurred.

"MASHER"

TACKLED THE WRONG WOMAN ON THE EAST SIDE.

Insisted Upon Walking Home With Her, But a Slap Brought Him to His Senses.

Lately a number of reports have been received of women and young girls being chased through the streets after dark by evil minded men. On Monday night about 6:15 o'clock, as a well known young lady, who is employed in an office on the public square was on her way to her home in the East End, she was approached by a fellow immediately in front of the Hotel Warden, who bent towards her and coughed. The young woman immediately guessed the fellow's designs, and walking rapidly across the street, turned east on East Main street. Just as she got opposite the south door of the Griggs store the fellow overtook her and made the remark that he was going to walk home with her. She said, "No, you don't; I'm not afraid of you," and with that she struck the fellow a resounding smack in the face with her hand. The fellow gave utterance to the words, "O, Lord," and quickly disappeared in the darkness, no doubt fully realizing that he had tackled the wrong person.

NOTICES

Posted at Mills Providing for an Eight Hour Day in the Telluride District.

Denver, Nov. 15.—Notices were posted at the mills of the five big mines of the Telluride district that in future the eight-hour day would prevail in the mills. The plants concerned are those of the Smuggler Union, Liberty Bell, Tomboy, Nellie and Alta. It was the demand for this concession in the mills of the state that precipitated the strike in the mills and mines of Colorado and caused the bitter strife between unionists and mine owners in the Telluride and Cripple Creek districts. The minimum wage promised under the new arrangement is $3 a day.

AKRON GIRL

Knocked Down and Seriously Injured by an Unknown Man Within 20 Feet of Her Home.

Akron, O., Nov. 15.—Miss Emma Haverstick, aged 17, graduate from the Akron High school, was assaulted and badly beaten by an unknown man within 20 feet of her home, on Bowers street. The man knocked her down and beat her with his fist. Her screams brought neighbors and her father to her assistance. Miss Haverstick describes her assailant heavy set and wearing a slouch hat. The police say that a man answering the description got off a Cleveland, Akron and Columbus train a short time before the assault was committed. Miss Haverstick is in a serious condition.

WILDCATS

Four of Them in a Row—Not Clear What They Wanted—The Quartet Killed.

Susquehanna, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Woodward of Mount Pleasant, recently had a thrilling experience with wildcats. She stepped outside the kitchen door, intending to place a pan of milk in the vat-house, and as she closed the door she was confronted with four wildcats sitting in a row. Her screams brought the hired man with a rifle, and after an exciting running fight, three wildcats were killed, while the fourth ran away.

Mr. Woodward returned at this juncture and found his wife on the verge of hysterics. That night she complained of hearing a wildcat outside. To satisfy her Mr. Woodward went out with his gun and, sure enough, there was the remaining wildcat prowling around. It was promptly dispatched and Mrs. Woodward slept in peace.
